Drip Artificial, Inc. (“DripArt”) is committed to providing a website that is accessible to the widest possible audience, regardless of technology or ability.

To assist in achieving the accessibility goals with respect to our website, we are committed to working toward complying with all applicable standards through designing, developing, and operating our website in substantial conformance with generally recognized and accepted guidelines and/or standards for website accessibility (the “Standards”). While these Standards may change and/or evolve over time, they are currently the World Wide Web Consortium’s Web Content Accessibility Guidelines 2.0 at Levels A and AA.

We regularly evaluate our website - please be aware that our efforts are ongoing. If, at any time, you have difficulty viewing, accessing, navigating, or using the website or any content therein, or if you have any specific questions, feedback, or concerns about the accessibility of any content, feature, functionality, or any particular web page within our sites, please feel free to email us at accessibility@comfy.org with “Accessibility” in the subject line and provide a description of the issue or content you believe is not accessible. Please be sure to specify the web page/URL/app in your email. We will work with you and make all reasonable efforts to address your concerns to provide the information, item, or transaction you seek through an alternate communication method that is accessible for you consistent with applicable law (for example, through telephone support). While we have no control over third parties, we strongly encourage third party providers of digital content to provide accessible and user-friendly content.
